EVACUATION IN GREECE IS DENIED

Reports Of Nazi Advance In Balkans Show Allied Withdrawal Toward South

LONDON, (UP)—An authoritative source said today that reports the British expeditionary force is contemplating evacuation from Greece are false.

Advance Reported

LONDON, (UP)—Radio Athens broadcast reports again today that Yugoslav forces advancing from Kachanik Pass were threatening the important Serbian town of Skopje, key point in German communications.

General Captured

LONDON, (UP)—Gen. Ruggiero Santini, 71, one of Italy's crack commanders and colonial administrators, has been captured by British Empire forces in Ethiopia, the ministry of information said today.

By UNITED PRESS

Adolf Hitler's panzer divisions stormed across Greece today, shattering the whole first line of Greco-British defenses and carrying the battle near Mount Olympus, mythical home on ancient Greek gods.

Nazi hammer blows splintered defenses which had been thrown up across northern Greece from Phlorina to Gianniza. The Greeks and their British allies appeared to be falling back to mid Greece for another stand from Ioannini to Larisa.

German rumors said to the north the Yugoslavs were asking for an armistice and capitulation might come within a short time.

Nazi propagandists insisted the British were preparing to evacuate their expeditionary force from Greece but there was no confirmation of these rumors from Athens or London.

From London and Athens there was no confirmation of the Nazi reports of a British embarkation. A statement by the Greek high command, coupled with brief statements from British sources, made plain a general withdrawal from northern Greece was under way.

The towns mentioned by the Greek high command as locations of present fighting were south of the northern defense system which had run from Phlorina to Gianniza.

LEGION NOTES SCHOOL WEEK

State Commander Calls Upon Members To Join In Annual Observance

SAN FRANCISCO — Declaring that the American Legion "has a deep appreciation of the fact that Democracy depends largely upon the class room for strength and vitality," William J. Farrell, California commander of the Legion, today in a statement to members of his organization and to the public urged co-operation in the coming observance of Public Schools Week, beginning April 28.

Farrell's statement said: "The American Legion has a deep appreciation of the fact that Democracy depends largely upon the class room for strength and vitality. In this modern, scientific twentieth century of technical knowledge and intensive application of skills, both of brawn and brain, the criterion of success is, first, sound preparation, and then continuous growth to something better, continuous self-improvement. The way to keep the avenues of advancement open is through the opportunity for free education—our public schools.

"We teach and preach that a Democracy is the most civilized form of government there is; that it functions best where its citizens are best educated. Its processes may be slow, it is true, but its results and achievements are far more beneficial, more just than any laws shoved through hurriedly at the instance or through the edict of the opportunist dictator.

"During Public Schools Week go to your schools. Become better acquainted with the human beings who control, to a great degree, the destinies of your children.

"Sustain the leaders of American education in their steadfast adherence to sound and tested principles and America will fulfill its destiny through the continuing production of informed, restrained, courageous, independent young men and women."

The coming observance marks the twenty-second annual celebration of the event, which last year attracted more than a million visitors to the schools of their neighborhoods.

Friends received word on Monday afternoon of the death at Oakland Sunday of William A. MacLeod, formerly of this county.

He had resided at Oakland for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Pearson and daughter returned during the week-end to their home at Santa Maria following an Easter visit with relatives here and at Smith Flat.

SENATE OPENS DEFENSE QUIZ

Emergency Period May Continue "A Long Time" Says Secretary Of War

By LOUIS J. SCHAEFFLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today that the United States Army and Navy must be prepared to fight in any part of North, South or Central America, "or even possibly other regions," where it may be necessary to use them in defense of this country and its possessions.

Stimson's statement was made at the opening meeting of the special senate committee's investigation of the defense program. He did not elaborate on "other regions."

His reference to the necessity of training American armed forces "for the possibilities of war in many and varied terrains," followed a warning that the United States is facing an infinitely greater danger than it did during World War days. However, he said there were many encouraging factors in the defense situation, because of the "intelligent advance planning" by the war department in collaboration with American industry.

"Today," he said, "not only are we facing a dangerous emergency, but there is strong evidence that this emergency may be very prolonged and that we may have to continue our effort for a long time."

He told the committee that industry has raised production of war materials to a point where it is running eight to twelve months ahead of wartime levels of 1917-18. Initial phases of the war department's production responsibility have been completed and this summer forces in training will be "well on their way to being fully equipped," he said. "No soldier will lack the basic weapons sufficient to carry his training well ahead and his heavier equipment will be coming forward steadily and in substantial quantities," he said. "From this point forward, the chief responsibility for the speedy completion of the equipment will rest upon American industry."

FOUR KILLED IN MINING STRIKE

Kentucky-Tennessee Border Clash Brings Total Deaths To 9 In Coal Shut-down

By UNITED PRESS

Authorities reported that four men—two mine officials, a deputy sheriff and a miner—were killed in a gun battle Tuesday along the Kentucky-Tennessee border south of Middlesboro, Ky., when CIO-United Mine Workers attempted to organize laborers at the Fork Ridge, Tenn., mine which had been operating while most mines in 12 states were shut down.

The Fork Ridge mine was not under union contract, Kentucky officers said.

Today's fighting brought to nine the number of men killed in fighting while coal operators and miners' union heads negotiated a new wage contract at New York. Five were killed in Harlan county rioting April 1 and 2.

Action of the defense mediation board was decreasing the number of strikes at plants holding defense contracts. The board announced a settlement, pending union ratification, of walkouts at two of fourteen plants now idle because of labor difficulties.

Three major firms joined the nation's two largest producers of steel in granting a wage increase of ten cents an hour to workers.

Government conciliators prepared to join discussions between representatives of General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile workers on a new contract.

CEDAR GROVE RESIDENT FOUND DEAD BY NEIGHBORS

William Christopher Pearson, 86, resident since 1937 in the Cedar Grove district, above Snowline CCC camp, was found dead at his home Tuesday morning by neighbors who had noticed that an electric light which had burned throughout the night, was still burning after daylight.

Mr. Pearson's body was in a chair, his spectacles raised above his eyes, and a newspaper lying nearby, leading to the supposition that he suffered a heart attack as he sat down to read the paper. He had been treated by a physician for an unsatisfactory heart condition sometime previously.

Deceased was a native of Cecil County, Maryland, born April 1, 1855, resident in California since 1914 and a plasterer and bricklayer by trade. He had lived in the Cedar Grove district since 1937.

According to Coroner A. J. Orelli, Mr. Pearson was a widower. Whether there are surviving children was not immediately known. The coroner said he will confer with Mr. Pearson's physician relative to the advisability of an inquest and indicated it is probable that a simple investigation will close the case.

The body was removed to Memory Chapel pending arrangements for funeral services and interment.

CHILD ESCAPES SERIOUS HURTS IN AUTO MISHAP ON MONDAY

Ethel Smith, daughter of Mrs. Leah Smith and an eighth grade pupil at the grammar school, escaped with painful but not necessarily severe hurts Monday afternoon when she walked into the side of a moving truck on Main Street.

The mishap took place opposite the postoffice about 4:40 o'clock in the afternoon, as the child alighted from a car and started across the street to the postoffice. Upon entering the "down" traffic lane, she walked into a truck driven by David Campbell, 54, of Placerville.

The truck was proceeding slowly and Mr. Campbell halted the vehicle within a short distance, although not before the left front wheel had passed over the child's foot.

The child was thrown to the street and is reported to have been rendered unconscious. She was removed to Placerville Sanatorium and from there to her home after an examination indicated she suffered chiefly from shock, and from bruises, no bones being broken.

The city police report of the accident notes that no traffic law violation was involved and that witnesses held the driver blameless for the incident.

Association Considers Various Topics Relative To Road Betterment

A lively meeting of the Open Highway Fifty Association was held Monday evening at Globin's Al Tahoe with representation from Lake Valley, nearby Nevada points, and from Placerville in attendance.

Members of the association noted that upon the establishment of U. S. Route 50 as an all-year road across the Echo Summit, some consideration may be given a proposal to change the name of the association to the Highway Fifty Association.

Among the immediate aims of the association are the general support of movements intended to result in the improvement of Highway Fifty, and more particularly at this time, the assurance of making the road an all-year route, and a consideration of the possibility of improving the lower section of Meyers Grade at an early date.

Business of the Monday night meeting, conducted by President Curtis Rocca and Secretary Ralph King, included reports of committee work in behalf of these two specific projects.

SYNOPSIS

With Pop apparently better, Kitty returns to Mantion, happy in the thought of attending at Placerville College, where she plans to room with her girl-friend, Molly Scharf. But her hopes of a college education go glimmering with the arrival of a telegram saying Pop has had a stroke. Kitty takes the Limited for Philadelphia, and on the train meets and is befriended by Delphine Dettelle, owner of a New York cosmetic shop.

CHAPTER X

That little flash faded just the way the Olympia faded from my fingers as soon as I got back to Griscom Street. Delphine has something in her formula that keeps it from sticking. She always says a perfume must romance; she makes a cunning little hiss as she says it. "Keety, perfume is like an emotion; it must know how to say goodbye. You must be able to get rid of same when the mood changes. Can you say that for me in the language of advertising, not more than ten words please."

The minute I saw dear old Pop everything else went out of my mind. He was pretty sick. Some kind of bloodlet had been traveling round his system and landed in his speech center.

"I can't make out what he wants to say," Mac warned me. "Something about an owl. Crazy stuff. He mumbles so I can't get it."

Pop opened his eyes and looked at me like he was empty. He was in the big brass bed in the front hours while Myrtle went on working, talking or crooning to herself. Once and a while his eye would study the pantry cupboard where the whiskey bottle used to be. "Mister, you don't need to speculate dat closet any more. Ain' nothin' there but groceries, ain' no Pope's telephone."

Maybe sick people would all live longer if they sat in kitchens. There's something alive about a kitchen, the way it smells and sounds and feels. Afternoons I was in my typewriter, I'd hear Myrtle mulling away and once and a while Pop answer back. "No suh, cullud folks don't drink the way white folks does. Dey don' need to drink dat way, cullud people's heart ain' sunk so far down. Don' need to fish fo' it wid whiskey." Pop says something I don't hear, and Myrtle cracks right back. "Don't talk to me 'bout Repeal. You been repealing it yo'self fo' ten years. Dat's what put you where yo' is now. No, don't you holler fer Miss Kitty, let dat honeychile get on wid her wuhk. Mister, don't you black-woman me, ole black woman takin' good care of you."

Mornings, while he was still asleep, I hurried to the Maggie Street station and took the L downtown to business school. I got in three hours classwork before noon, then called up to see if everything was all right. Myrtle always had things under control.

Mother said it wouldn't work, but it did. When it came to flower I put it in a creaming on her dresser. She was mighty pleased. Now I'm the broken rosebud myself.

If he thought he was going to pull some pathos on us he was mistaken. Mac and I laughed and I said, "Rosebuds don't have whiskers like that. I'm going to get in the barber and have you pruned."

Myrtle too was good for more laughs than she knew about. One day she had to leave before I got home. She left a note for me: "Miss Kitty, there's mice in the Popes pantry closet, better get some trap cheese." I told Molly about this in one of the long letters we exchanged, and she still calls her lingerie drawer her pantry closet.

It must have been funny to see me trying to ease the old man off to bed, because I'd be tired as hell by ten o'clock when he was feeling talkative. I read him the sleepiest things I could find in the Ledger, where there was plenty to choose from, but they only put him in mind of adventures of his own and I'd pass into a stupor. At last he'd say, "Well, Kitty, give me the three steps of decency." That's the three steps you're supposed to go along with a friend who's leaving. I'd help him upstairs and fill his pipe so he'd have it ready to smoke in the morning—and likely burn more holes in the sheets. Then I'd go back to the typewriter and wonder what those damn symbols meant.

I must have been rather a solemn old owl for a kid of eighteen. But I knew that if and when anything happened the pension would stop, there wasn't much insurance, and I'd got to be ready to back up to the hairbrush.

Backing up to the hairbrush is what Molly calls it when we sit down for a Milkman's Matinee—which is coffee and cigarettes at midnight and hair down all over the place.

I wonder what we'd do without coffee and cigarettes, the career girls of our generation. As a matter of fact the milkman doesn't get much out of his matinee because the girls take it black. No cream because that adds just one more complication, and no sugar because it's fattening. Something of the strong taste of black coffee has got into our thinking.

There's such a grand lot of comedy running around loose, but who's to enjoy it with? Comedy isn't really comedy when you're all by yourself. At least not for women and Irish. Pop used to say, when they talking about settling, settees made out of nickel pipes or padded barroom stools. Every time she puts over a streamlined living room on some rich dame she figures there's another Man been fooled. He'll come home from his downtown clowning, she says, and won't have a chair to sit in. That's as much fun to her as big game hunting.

Molly says that because we have to be smart kidding the customers we don't have to take ourselves for a ride. She sells them the latest trick in stylized interiors; settees made out of nickel pipes or padded barroom stools. Every time she puts over a streamlined living room on some rich dame she figures there's another Man been fooled. He'll come home from his downtown clowning, she says, and won't have a chair to sit in. That's as much fun to her as big game hunting.

I tell her all about what a great chemist Mr. Dettelle is, and how our face powder is exploded so fine it can be blown through silk and she laughs like Little Audrey. I'm not trying to justify anything, I'm just thinking. Sure, I know it's an attempt to make things so complicated you won't remember how simple they might be. If any of my customers came in my bathroom wouldn't they be shocked because I don't use the things I sell 'em? That's all grand talk about the vanisher and the cleanser and the freshener, tissue packs and astringent pads and double-chin gymnastic and milkweed massage and Bathsheba Shampoo. Beautifully packaged too. I can stuff a dame's toilet cabinet so full of gadgets she's afraid to open the mirror for fear they'll all fall out. And my own equipment? A box of salt and a bottle of cologne and a jar of cleansing cream. With a toothbrush and a hairbrush and a lipstick, what more do you need?

What happened to me with Wyn was a kind of salt gargle. It's good for teeth and sore throat and it leaves you feeling clean. I'd like to be in the salt business. It's Bible stuff, it ought to be fairly honest.

"I hope you don't say that kind of thing to your customers," Molly remarks.

SOURCE: NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS

This is one of a series of articles designed to inform the public of the progress being made by American industry in providing the weapons for national defense. The facts presented have been gathered in surveys and from other authoritative sources.

In a few short months, American industry has again demonstrated its amazing versatility.

Despite a variety of obstacles, it has swung from the normal manufacture of peacetime products to all-out defense. In the course of that transformation some remarkable things have happened, not the least important of which have been the numerous ways that specialized manufacturers have turned their talents to making the instruments for American defense.

The examples are many. Some of the best will not come to light for some time, for industry is far too busy working to talk about its accomplishments.

Plants that were making wooden spindles are now turning out wooden "taps" for shells; makers of sewing machines now make pistols for the Army; gasoline processors are producing synthetic rubber — possibly against a day when foreign supplies of petroleum might be cut off or drastically curtailed.

The makers of the ingenious linotype that converts "copy" into the type of your daily newspaper are turning their skills to defense work. The precision workers in that industry are making gun fire control and other delicate equipment for the American armed forces. The list runs on: a typewriter factory is producing arms; auto wheel makers are building shell cases. And a lipstick manufacturing firm is now putting out shell cases.

Here are a few more examples: Washing machines to shell points; compacts to shells; carpets to machine tool plants; lawnmowers to fuses; tin cans to gas mask parts; watches to small arms parts.

These are the fruits of industrial skill and versatility.

These, too, are the forces that are making America strong.

cisco and in Post Office buildings at Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton, and San Jose, California and Reno, Nevada.

Resort Man Commends Police Courtesy

Editor: Early this morning, Mr. and Mrs. Reily B. Aikin and their son Brenton, of Mill Valley stopped in Placerville.

They were enroute to their summer home near Echo Portals. As is commonly the case, something had been forgotten and in this case the item was a pair of ski bindings.

Mr. Aikin located a likely looking store and tried the door, which happened to be locked. The paper boy was on hand and no doubt the milk man must have been nearby. Your Chief of Police, Ralph Jones was also on hand, and inquired of Mr. Aikin his wants. Upon learning the situation, he put himself out to telephone the owner of the store, who soon appeared with the keys, opened up, and supplied the bindings.

It is easy to visualize the reaction from Placerville visitors to the courtesy extended to Mr. Aikin by Chief of Police Jones. I feel that such considerations, beyond those normally expected, deserve commendation. Those of us who are so interested in making Highway Fifty America's most cordial route take pleasure in calling this incident to your attention. Mr. Aikin is well known in Mill Valley and Marin County, at present being a member of the mill Valley Park Commission. I am certain that he will long remember pleasantly the incident with your Chief of Police, who seems to offer the attribute of courtesy as well as efficiency to the benefit of Placerville.

Very truly yours,
Ralph King, Secretary,
Open Highway Fifty Ass'n.

"VICTORY," JOSEPH CONRAD STORY, ON EMPIRE SCREEN TUESDAY

A select group of some of Hollywood's best actors is to be seen in the Paramount screen version of one of the greatest novels ever written, Joseph Conrad's "Victory," showing Tuesday at the Empire Theatre.

One of the most important of current films, the picture stars Fredric March, and Betty Field, whose exceptional acting ability has made her one of the brightest stars in Hollywood. Featured in the impressive cast are Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Sig Ruman, Margaret Wyckoff, Jerome Cowan, Fritz Feld, Lionel Royce and Rafaela Ottiano.

"Give Us Wings," a story of aerial crop-dusters, casts the Dead End Kids, together with the Little Tough Guys, as youthful aviators. Jory is their unethical employer who forces them to pilot creaky planes in their dangerous work.

Production of bar toilet soap exceeds 400,000,000 pounds annually and white and yellow bar laundry soap exceeds 1,200,000,000 pounds according to the Census Bureau.

HOPKINS HEADS LEASE-LEND PROGRAM

Appointment By President Revealed In Letter To Secretary Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Roosevelt today formally placed his right-hand man, Harry L. Hopkins, in command of the lend-lease program of aid to democracies.

In a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Mr. Roosevelt terminated the liaison committee established Dec. 6, 1939, to coordinate foreign military purchases with America's own defense program.

Simultaneously, he designated Hopkins to supervise purchases "by all countries in the lend-lease area."

Hopkins has been unofficial liaison agent between President Roosevelt's so-called "war cabinet," the policy-making group, and the office of production management, the agency charged with actually producing weapons. He has been serving as informal secretary of the war cabinet, and as a member of the production planning board of OPM.

He lives at the White House but is not on the federal payroll, and Early said that Mr. Roosevelt's letter does not place him there.

MARITIME ACADEMY TESTS WILL BE HELD ON JUNE 28TH

Dr. Walter F. Dexter, State Director of Education, announces that the annual competitive examination for the 75 appointments as Cadets in the California Maritime Academy will be held in various cities of the State on June 28th.

The Academy offers a full college course in three terms of twelve months each. Approximately four months of each year is spent on a foreign cruise. The three year course leads to a license as a Merchant Marine Officer, a Bachelor of Science degree and a commission in the U. S. Naval Reserve. Of importance is the fact that every graduate can probably secure immediate employment as a Merchant Marine Officer. The demand for graduates exceeds the supply, and the Academy is recognized as a prime source of officers for the Merchant Marine. Tuition is free but there is a cost of about $300 a year for food, uniforms, books and incidentals.

Candidates must have a high school education or its equivalent and be between the age of 17 and

25. A catalog and an application blank may be secured by writing to the Secretary, California Maritime Academy, 515 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco, California.

The average number of children ever born to Negro mothers, according to the Census Bureau, is 3.5 as compared with 2.7 for white mothers.

A MESSAGE FROM THE ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY

How to make sure the house you buy or build has ADEQUATE WIRING

A house is "underwired" IF—

Lights blink or go dim when a heavy duty appliance is turned on.

Toasters or other heating appliances are slow coming up to proper temperature.

Lamps or clocks or radios must be disconnected in order to use vacuum cleaner or movie projector.

A traffic jam occurs at certain outlets and a wobbly three or four way plug must be used.

Your furniture arrangement is restricted by the location of your plugs for lamps, clocks and radios.

Every year thousands of new homes have wiring systems installed that are just short of being first-class jobs. It seems a pity that this occurs because small additional cost would assure the home builder getting a wiring job that would not bring disappointments in years to come.

Think of the many electrical appliances used in the modern home. Each year two or three additional new appliances are acquired and put into use. Then "traffic jams" occur at convenience outlets, circuits become overloaded and voltage drops so that lamps and appliances do not operate to full efficiency.

Plan each room in your house for adequate wiring. Discuss wiring completely with your architect and contractor. Talk with your electrical contractor or this company. Then plan your home wiring to meet the Red Seal Standard of Certified Adequate Wiring.

The Red Seal Plan is a set of specifications set up by wiring experts of the electrical industry. Remember Adequate Wiring will pay for itself many times over.

MORE 1929 LICENSES ARE CANCELLED EFFECTIVE MAY 1ST

Residents of El Dorado County were informed today that a second group of 1929 drivers licenses, including all those issued in April, May and June of that year, have been cancelled by order of James M. Carter, Director of Motor Vehicles.

The order, issued as a safety move, is effective May 1st and is statewide in scope.

Licenses issued during the first three months of 1929 were cancelled under an earlier order effective April 1st.

Pointing out that it is a misdemeanor to drive with a cancelled operator's license, Captain Elwood Brewster urges residents of El Dorado County to apply for a new license at once.

Applicants are required to submit to a vision test, pass a simple written test and give a practical demonstration of ability to drive safely.

Have you noticed how handsome table settings are this spring? A prize dinner table recently combined a white-flowered rayon cloth (rayon cloths in fine spun weaves are new and very eyefo) with the table ware of Lenox rose pattern.

The silver was Gorham's Cavalier and the glass, Rock Sharpe Crystal. A white Lenox bowl with a pink sweet peas arrangement was used for centerpiece. Just as good-looking was the table using a rayon cloth of delicate green color; dishes of Lenox ware—the azalea pattern with its large single flower in the center, a small potted azalea in a Lenox bowl, was the complementing centerpiece. Silver chosen for this group was the graceful Mladky. Community plate and the glass was Libbey's handsome Montebello pattern.

A luncheon or breakfast grouping consisted of table mats with pussy willow design, Chippendale McBead "Victoria" pottery, Palm Mall tumblers, yellow-handled cutlery. The centerpiece was a copper bowl with a mat of baby's tears what possibilities that plant has for artistic arrangements with a design of forget-me-nots and tiny ranunculus.
